Double A: A Game in the Life of the Akron Aeros, Color. 58 mins. mins. NR. Video Released Oct. 2002. Editor Mark Wade Stone. Music by Carl Michel. Photographer David A. Brodowski. Produced by Mark Wade Stone. Double A is a locally produced documentary about one of northeast Ohio?s true jewels: the Akron Aeros, the 2002 Eastern League Southern Division champs. Akron Aeros fans will get a rare opportunity to catch a day in the life of the players during a typical minor league playoff series in Double A. A story told with no narration, Double A is an hour-long snapshot that presents an unwavering view of how a city back on the rise has reinvented what used to be: people being people, watching baseball that families can afford, played free of the trappings of the big leagues. On its face, Double A is about baseball, says Mark Wade Stone, producer and editor of the documentary. But it is less that than it is about the people who play, watch and work around minor league baseball. The texture of life remains a rich and enduring one, as thousands of players, fans and workers have yet another encounter with America?s pastime. Storytellers Media Group, LTD. VHS. (ISBN: 978-0-9749575-0-0(X)) $18.95.

Dudley Giberson's Core Vessel Video. Color. 35 mins. Home. G. (Narrated: English). Video Released May 2004. Author Dudley F. Giberson, Jr. Video documents Dudley Giberson?s work on ancient glass core vessel technology. Dudley?s work begins in 1991 after a startling dream unveils an unusual ancient glass furnace, and in response he builds this item. To his astonishment it works perfectly. Over time using this small vertical furnace akin to the present day tandoor of India and Asia, he begins making hot glass. At first it was just beads, then core vessels. The video is also about showing his unusual approaches to solving ancient glass problems. Seeing is believing when you realize what simple ideas ancient glass making sprang from. Here frit glass is used to manufacture core vessels. Great footage of fancy cane lip wraps and trailing and feathering scenes, where every element of the Dudley's techniques are hypothesized from evidence found in the archaeological record. Piece by piece the mystery unfolds. Many illustrations make clear ideas that have long been misunderstood with video replication and clear audio dialog to explain the many facets of this long lost art. Reel time: 35 minutes. DVD - the Amish: A people of Preservation. Color, 54 MINS mins. Video Released May 2003. An award-winning PBS documentary the Amish keep surprising their technology-programmed neighbors by keeping alive ways and beliefs that many modern Americans wish they could recapture. In this colorful, updated documentary, Mennonite historian John Ruth takes us sympathetically into the Amish mindset. Dr. John A. Hostetler, author of Amish society, comments on the survival of an alternative to the kind of world we have made. As the Amish increase in numbers, some of them migrate from homesteads in Pennsylvania toward more open farmland. Those staying where the land is too crowded to farm have developed an amazing variety of cottage industries. But all such changes are made very carefully, in order not to sacrifice spiritual covenant and community for the sake of convenience.DVD Features:Languages: EnglishSubtitles: NoneViewing Format: Fullscreen Sound:Bonus Material:Chapter Selections, Vision Video. Dying to be Thin: The Disturbing Truth Behind Anorexia, Bulimia, & America's Body Obsession. 1 disc. Color. 60 mins. (NOVA Ser.). CC. Age: 9-UP. Home Group. Public performance. NR. Video Released Jan. 2004. Narrated by Susan Sarandon. A 14-year-old looks at her image and says, "I see somebody that is fat and ugly and a disappointment." She is like a growing number of young American girls afflicted with such eating disorders as anorexia nervosa and bulimia. Tormented by an irrational fear of being fat, an estimated eight million young women are torturing themselves-sometimes to death. It's no wonder eighty percent of women are dissatisfied with their bodies. Driven by the waif-like images flooding the media of popular actresses, models, dancers and celebrities-who can weigh nearly twenty-five percent less than the average American woman-young girls are obsessed with an unattainable image of perfection. Dying To Be Thin introduces you to students, ballet dancers, fashion models and other young women who are seeking recovery or have conquered their disease. Plus, you'll discover how leading eating disorder specialists are making dramatic advances in the diagnosis and treatment of these two devastating diseases. Go behind the scenes with NOVA for a courageous and candid look at America's body obsession. WGBH Boston Video. DVD. (ISBN: 978-1-59375-168-5(0), Order #: WG29049) $19.95.

Eating. Color. 85 mins. Non-Profit. NR. (Narrated: English). Video Released Jan. 2003. Narrated by Michael Anderson. The American eating habit is the biggest cause of disease, disabilities and death in the U.S. today, yet it?s the most ignored aspect of medical practice. "Eating" clearly and effectively shows how the major diseases afflicting Americans - ranging from heart disease to cancers to diabetes and arthritis - are the result of our change in eating habits during the 20th century. It then shows how simple changes in diet can prevent these diseases. "Eating" debunks cherished nutrition myths, discusses the politics of food and compares our current attitudes about eating with our attitudes about smoking in the past. Dr. Ruth Heidrich is interviewed about changing diet to prevent breast cancer. The video also describes how the American eating habit is devastating our food supply, animal agriculture and the environment. "Eating" demonstrates how simple food choices have unanticipated consequences and provides strong motivation for people to make fundamental changes in the way they eat. "Eating" provides an extremely compelling look at a habit that is the most popular form of unassisted suicide in America today. RaveDiet.com. VHS. (ISBN: 978-0-9726590-0-0(5)) $19.95.

Edgar G. Ulmer: The Man Off-Screen. (2004). Color and B&W. 77 mins. NR. Video Released Sep. 2006. Gale Sondergaard, John Carradine, Sidney Toler. Directed by Edgar G. Ulmer, Michael Palmer. On his own and in collaboration with movie-legends F.W. Murnau, Fritz Lang and Billy Wilder, from Berlin's legendary UFA Studios to poverty-row purgatory in Hollywood (where he was blackballed for stealing a studio exec's daughter-in-law), Ulmer created a unique and heady blend of old world culture and twentieth century pulp pizzazz. As a bonus, Kino pairs The Man Off-Screen with Isle of Forgotten Sins (aka Monsoon), a characteristically lurid Ulmer-helmed 1943 South Seas island adventure that pits John Carradine (The Grapes of Wrath) and Gale Sondergaard against Sidney "Charlie Chan" Toler in a deadly hunt for deep sea gold. Electric Edwardians: The Films of Mitchell & Kenyon. B&W. 85 mins. Age: 10-UP. NR. Video Released Jul. 2006. In the earliest years of the twentieth century, enterprising traveling showmen in the north of England hired pioneer filmmakers Sagar Mitchell and James Kenyon to shoot footage of local people going about their everyday activities. These films would be shown later at nearby fairgrounds, town halls and neighborhood theaters. Workers, school children, sports fans and seaside vacationers all flocked to see themselves miraculously captured on screen! The astonishing discovery of the original Mitchell and Kenyon negatives in Blackburn, England - in a basement about to be demolished - has been described as film's equivalent of Tutankhamen's tomb. From the MTA Education Seminar 2005 - Advanced CMT TopicsPolish your CMT exam skills by hearing from the experts in the toughest exam areasOur Advanced CMT Topics track is designed for candidates in the CMT Program and recent graduates. This track covers seven topics with which candidates tend to have the most difficulty, particularly on the CMT Level 3 essay exam. The presentations cover three of the most complex topics:Japanese candle charting, point & figure charting and Elliott Wave Principle, all taught by practitioners. These areas seem to give candidates the most difficulty on the exams, so an hour with the experts should prove to be a valuable education. The presentations on equities, foreign exchange, commodities and currencies are taught by individuals whose careers are dedicated to analyzing these markets. Many CMT candidates only focus on one of these markets; these sessions are designed to get candidates up to speed on analyzing markets with which they may not be familiar.Altogether, these seven sessions are designed to give attendees insights into how technical analysis is applied in the real world. As well, these sessions are designed to be the perfect preparation for the essay questions on the CMT Level 3 exam which covers each of these areas. The insights of the practicing technicians who lead these sessions are representative of those insights required to pass the exams. These sessions were designed with CMT candidate feedback in mind. Often, candidates who spend their work day analyzing one market or primarily utilizing one technique, have a difficult time shifting gears to address all of the markets and techniques covered by the CMT Program. Exploring Biblical Jordan. Color. 59 MINS mins. Video Released Jun. 2003. When Christians today think of the Holy Land, most visualize Jerusalem, Galilee, and other sites within the borders of the modern state of Israel. Yet many crucial events of the Old and New Testaments occurred not in Israel but on the other side of the famous river-in the Kingdom of Jordan. In this compelling video, director David Nunn brings you along as he follows the adventures of Lot, as he fled from Sodom and was sheltered in a cave; Jacob, as he wrestled with God by the river Jabbock; and Moses, as he led the great Exodus northwards from Aqaba. There's Mount Hor, where Aaron died and was buried; the plains of Moab, where Moses gave his final instructions and blessing; Beth Peor, where he pleaded to be allowed to enter the Promised Land; Mount Nebo, where he glimpsed it and died; Amman, where Uriah was killed in battle. We visit Elijah's homeland and the site of his dramatic departure; Petra, where the wise men possibly brought their gifts. At Bethany beyond the Jordan, John baptized Jesus, and Jesus met his first disciples; at Machaerus, John was imprisoned and beheaded. We even descend to the tombs, which the Gadarene demoniac frequented. These, and much more, make this a unique and gripping program. A Biblical exploration that really comes alive. Directed and Presented by David Nunn. Vision Video. VHS. (ISBN: 978-1-56364-697-3(8)) $19.99.
